Litigation Based on Allegation of Plaintiff That Edmund K. Fox Had Advised Her to Buy Property, of Which He Was Part Owner.

A decree in favor of Mrs. Louise H. Patterson, against Edmund K. Fox, trading as A. F. Fox & Co., for $29,964.26, with interest from September, 1913, was given today by Judge Stafford, sitting in equity in the District Supreme Court.

This decree is the outcome of litigation which has attracted widespread attention. The suit was based on the allegation of Mrs. Patterson that Fox, while acting as her agent, had advised her to dispose of her interest in seventeen houses and buy in their place the California apartment house, which, it further was alleged, Fox had previously acquired by putting up a $500 deposit on the morning of the day he had persuaded her the deal would be to her best interest.

afterward, and tried to see Mr. Fox. She was told he was in Alaska, and that she would have to wait until he returned. She succeeded in getting a statement in which, she says, the California was put in to her at $77,500 and her own property figured in the deal at $77,500, as though she had agreed to may $79,600 more for the contract to pay $20,000 more for the apartment than her property would bring.

She complained again, and said she was told she would have to wait for a correction until the sales manager, who was ill, returned.

Fox, it was said, had advised Mrs. by one of her houses on Sunderland Patterson to buy the California, subject to a first trust of $35,000 and a second they were sold, and ultimately she was to a first trust of $35,000 and a second trust of $25,000 put on the apartment at the time of the deal. Of the trusts on the California, $5,000 was in the form of a building association trust, this association having loaned practically the full cost of building the apartment. Fox is said to have failed to make the monthly payments to the building association, and Mrs. Patterson then was advised the property was up for auction. Mrs. Fox wanted to sell all her property and invest in stocks, bonds and first mortgages, but Fox, it was alleged, suggested that she make a trade for the California apartment. This property had cost in all, including building, had cost in all, including bounds, and interest on the investment, sa'e and foreclosure, which would wipe out her investment, and advised an Mrs. Patterson said Fox called her agreement with Fox. Fox then claim-In telling of the inception of the $42,000.

Mrs. Patterson said Fox called her on the telephone at Falls Church and told her to hurry to his office, that he lars, but that if she would let him hold told her to hurry to his office, that he lars, but that if she would let him hold told her to hurry to his office, that he had a golden opportunity to invest her money, and that such a chance might not come again. She said he promised her returns of more than 20 per cent.

When Mrs. Patterson balked at signing a paper, transferring her other property, Fox is alleged to have told her the paper merely constituted a "working agreement" and further assured her, she asserted, that he would act for her as he would for his own mother. She said he strongly advised her to make the deal.

At the end of this period, she alleged, she was told she owed Fox more than at the start, and she was requested by him, she said, to sign an agreement for two years.

This she refused to do, because it would have put her beyond the three-year statute of limitation, and she brought suit. The testimony before the brought to be her agent was a part owner of the appartment. "One thing is certain," Mr. Edson continued. "the citizenship here cannot maintain the city as the capital of a great nation as the city should be maintained. The task is too great."

He, too, advocated action to abate the cat nuisance.

Lampton and Fox, it was alleged, then formed a working partnership, and both met Mrs. Patterson in the evening when she came in from Falls Churca.

She signed papers, but insisted that the amounts be inserted therein. She said Fox told her such a procedure was not usual, and that the paper she signed was only a working paper by which she was only a working paper by which she could hold the owner to his agreement. She also said Fox told her if she would give him a year to close out her progerty (most of which he already had sold), he would buy it at $57.500. Mrs. Patterson further stated she was told the owner would sell the California for $12,500. of which $2,000 was represented
